The Challenge

Quality Control is an integral part of documentation process of all regulatory and scientific documents. Clinical trial information needs to be thoroughly checked for data consistency, accuracy, and presentation, prior to regulatory submission. Historically, such checks have required multiple time-consuming manual review cycles.

Industry needs an automated platform to tackle this concern which saves effort and time of medical writers and deliver the error-free quality documentation.

Addressing the Challenge

DocQC is an integrated solution to support document quality control (QC) checks for Life Sciences organization. Considering the pain areas of a medical writer during the QC of a document, most of the checks have been automated using cutting-edge technologies (that include AI/M-L/NLP techniques), within DocQC.

DocQC allows real-time automated execution of checks on all kind of documents with its User-friendly interface. DocQC also generate QC reports and performance metrics reports to track quality of all documents and processes across QC phases.

Outcome

DocQC offers one stop automated solution/tool for QC checks supporting all types of documents. DocQC increases the efficiency, effectiveness and time saving of your QC process with each iteration while reviewing the documents.

DocQC enables medical writers to maintain their focus on the science, analyses, and presentation of results, while the tool will help in ensuring the accuracy, consistency, and integrity of the documents to ensure that the documents are submission-ready deliverables.
